Dear Lindsey,

RE:

- Theoretical Issues in Ergonomics
- Ergonomics

On behalf of the IEA, I have signed the Memorandum of Understanding including the agreed prices for Association members for these publications.

We are very pleased to continue our relationship with Taylor & Francis. I was aware that many of our Federated Societies are actively promoting your journals and these agreed prices as part of the IEA endorsed journals program. Our current estimates of IEA members are around 20,000 with our major growth in developing countries.

If we can develop new strategies to promote these important journals relating to ergonomics, we would be pleased to discuss this further.

I will include a mention of our renewed MoU in my next IEA Newsletter to the members.

Feel free to check our website www.iea.cc for some of the ways that we are promoting other journals and International Standards. Our statistics show a 50% increase in connections to the IEA website in the last six months since the site redesign was launched.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. David C Caple
IEA President
